WHY YOU SHOULD SPONSOR

The 2016 Western District Conference is a dynamic opportunity to position your company to hundreds of highly networked public relations practitioners working in the western United States. These influencers are highly connected; respected for their ability to spot trends and manage change; and hold extensive media, consumer and stakeholder relationships. The typical attendee is a reflection of the most coveted consumer profiles. More than half of conference-goers are senior- or mid-level professionals making more than $50,000 per year, and their employer base is well-rounded, including private companies of all sizes, agencies, consulting firms, governments and universities. More than 2,200 district members recognize sponsors as major contributors to the value and success of PRSA, and conference organizers are committed to helping you maximize these opportunities. We'll serve as a facilitator to support and leverage your corporate identity, products and services to conference constituents.
